FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ATLAS CONTINUES TO EXPAND OFFICES THROUGHOUT U.S.

Calabasas, CA, July 25, 2011 Atlas Development Corporation announced today the opening of their 4th satellite office in the U.S., located in Saddle Brook, New Jersey. The New Jersey office joins Atlas' three other satellite offices that opened earlier this year.

Recently the Company opened regional offices in Las Vegas, Nevada and Dallas, Texas. The Company also relocated its North Carolina operations to larger facilities in Kernersville, North Carolina. The New Jersey office location provides yet another extension to support the continuing growth of Atlas Development Corporation whose headquarters is located in Calabasas, California.

New offices have opened as a result of an expansion of services and personnel. "Atlas operations continue to expand," states Robert Gregory, Chief Business Officer. "Our support, integration services, and implementation personnel have grown to reflect the increase in our customer base. Our rising number of employees will be accommodated in the new facilities."

Atlas Development Corporation, a privately held company with more than 21 years of service delivering mission-critical solutions to health industry leaders, operates three divisions: Atlas Medical, Atlas Public Health and Atlas Consulting. Our Medical division provides a suite of industry leading connectivity solutions to hundreds of national and regional commercial providers of diagnostic testing and hospital outreach programs serving more than 75,000 physicians and clinicians. Atlas Public Health provides mission-critical software solutions to enable health professionals to protect and promote the well-being of the community. Atlas Consulting works with organizations to create and implement software solutions that deliver profitable business intelligence.
